Press Release

ERO requires from KESCO regular power supply without any load-shedding

The Energy Regulatory Office (ERO) notifies the general public that, pursuant to its legal authority, is constantly monitoring the operations and behaviours of the electricity system operators in the country. According to recent information, received through customer complaints, printed and electronic media reporting, it has been noticed that the Energy Supply Operator (KESCO) is applying load-shadings in various areas in the country. ERO has reacted immediately by sending an official letter to KESCO through which it requested a regular power supply and to immediately stop power cuts, except in cases where system security is put at risk.

Once again ERO requires from the licensees to do their best and make possible proper functioning of the electricity system, and offer proper energy supply.
